

I am voicing my concern over the BPL as it is progressing too fast without proper restraint for a new technology. At issue are the power companies who have not responded to BPL interference complaints made by amateur radio operators. I also am concerned that the FCC may change the Part 15 rules. They are sufficient, just need to be enforced in a timely manner. Many amateur radio operators myself (KF4GNO) included enjoy this privilege and want to contribute back to the community with our communications abilities in times of emergencies. In emergency situations, interference from any source can be a serious matter. Of special concern is the interference BPL can put out for public radio systems like Police, Fire, as well as services related to Homeland Security. Thank you. Gary Spires (KF4GNO)
